A disgraceful affair occurred last Tuesday in J. C. Genung's saloon.

James Mahoney had been drinking up til he got full and til he got full and got into a row with the proprietor, the outcome of which was that Mahoney was whacked on the head with a beer bottle giving him a bad looking phiz. He went to Paw Paw and, under the direction of the prosecutor, entered a complaint against Genung for keeping a saloon where intoxicating liquors were sold in violation of the statute. The National Editorial Association meets in St. Paul, Minnesota, on July 14th-17th, 1891. The capital of the North Star State is a delightful place for a summer meeting, and the fraternity has the promise of being hand-somely cared for. St. Paul and its neighbor, Minneapolis, are wonderful outgrowths of the marvelous develop-ment of the northwest. There are many pretty resorts around these twin giants. The most attractive, perhaps, is Lake Minnetonka, reached via the Great Northern Railway, with four tracks between the two cities, crossing the Mississippi river at Minneapolis on a half million dollar stone arch bridge in full sight of the Falls of St. Anthony, and thence through beautiful suburban places to Minnetonka Beach and Hotel Lafayette, the largest and finest summer resort hostelry in the northwest.

A box of Ayer's Pills has saved many a fit of sickness. When a remedy does not happen to be within reach, people are liable to neglect slight ailments, and of course, if serious illness follows they have to suffer the consequences. "A stitch in time saves nine."

Paw Paw, Mich., June 8, 1891. M. Snow & Sons, Paw Paw, Mich.—Gentlemen: The furnaces I bought of you are all right in every way. The one in my house cannot be beaten anywhere, and the one in the store is just as good. Have never passed a winter in the store as comfortably as last winter, and it was because the building was so well warmed in every part. I am well satisfied that I used less fuel than I should have used with stoves. Yours, etc., J. C. WARNER.
